

laying
in 1835, discover
+ The existence of Coal on the N.E. of Vancouver was by the under signed in summer 1835. then stationed at the Hudson's Bay post Fort Maccloughlin Milbank Sound. He in autumn sent specimens furnished by Indians to ~~manager of the~~ to ~~the~~ Maccloughlin, ~~the~~ manager in the West of Company business and ~~the~~ resident at their depot Fort Van couver on the Columbia river - Vancouver's at this time. The site of Victoria had not at this time been visited by a whiteman since the days of Vancouver.
Eighty years after ^{in 1843} a Company post was established there In these days it took six months at the shortest ~~to~~ F. Tolmie to communicate with Britain. In the ~~winter~~ autumn of 1835 the now old steamer "Beaver" under sail and accompanied by a consort vessel containing her machinery sailed from London for Ft Vancouver where the undersigned by this time removed to the Depot ^{store} says here arrive in March or April 1836.

W. F. Tolmie

BC Archives PR-0124
MS-0557 Box 1 File 15

William Fraser Tolmie fonds Memo re coal on Vancouver Island no date

ADD. MSS. 557

William Fraser Tolmie

Volume I Folder 15

Memo re Coal on Vancouver Island by and in 1835 discove[r]d

The existence of Coal on the N.E. of Vancouver's was by the unde[r]signed (in summer 1835), then stationed at the Hudson's Bay [Co.] post Fort Macloughlin Milbank Sound -- He in Autumn sent specimens, furnished by Indians to (the manager of the HBC) to () McCloughlin, (the) manager in the West of Company business and () resident at their depot Ft. Vancouver on the Columbia river -- Vancouver's at (this time) The site of Victoria had not at this time been visited by a whiteman since the days of Vancouver. (Eight years after) in 1843 a Company post was established there (In these) In these days it took six months at the shortest (W.F. Tolmie) to communicate with Britain -- In the (winter) autumn of 1835 the now old steamer "Beaver" under sail and accompanied by a consort () containing her machinery sailed from London for Ft. Vancouver where the undersigned by this time removed to the Depot saw her arrive in March or April 1836.

W. F. Tolmie

From: R. Moore, Delta, B.C., 2 May 1980.

